Dear Troy and Jen,

Thank you so much for inviting us to be one of the first to partner with iBean Coffee for Fundraising. It has been a great experience for Cole, allowing him to sell something different than anything else. The kids are always bringing home some sort of fundraising literature from school, and it is usually hard to find items that are unique and of a high quality. When we decided to start looking for ways for Cole to raise money, we balked at the idea of presenting any of these types of fundraising to our friends, family, and coworkers.

Since Cole is trying to raise money to take his racing to the next level, he needed something like this that could create repeat customers. The iBean coffees are such great quality, the response has been terrific. Everyone that has tried the coffee has enjoyed it, and we have many repeat customers. The process of ordering and receiving the coffee has been painless and streamlined, and the custom labels are awesome.

I would definitely recommend iBean Coffee to anyone looking for a quality fundraiser, and I actually have pointed a couple of people to the website already. I think that groups looking to raise money would have even a better response than we have had, as it is just Cole and our immediate family selling for Cole. With such a unique product to sell to people - something that almost everyone consumes daily - the sales are quite easy to make.

Thank you again,

Angie MacEwen
